

ENSA-PVS / GSES-NU Joint Architectural and Urban Design Workshop 2009

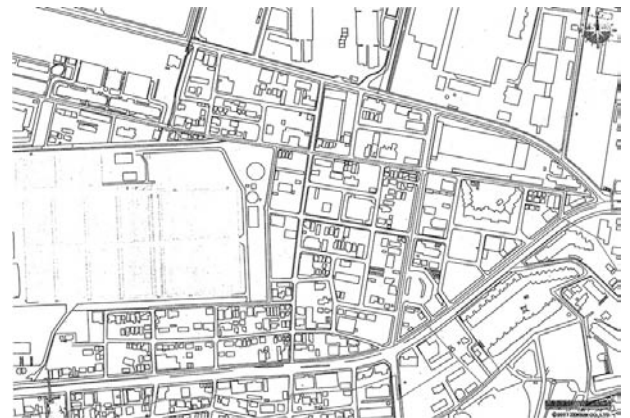

April 13-17, 2009 / Graduate School of Environmental Studies, Nagoya University

[Aim of the Workshop]

The aim of the workshop was to provide master students of ENSA-PVS (École Nationale Supérieure d'Architecture Paris Val-de-Seine) and GSES-NU (Graduate School of Environmental Studies, Nagoya University) an opportunity to communicate and collaborate with foreign colleagues with different backgrounds. Based on the interests of participating students and faculties, the workshop focused on a specific architectural and urban design project. GSES-NU also provided students opportunities to learn the latest research and practice of not only architectural/urban design but also structural design and environmental/building service design fields.

[Architectural and Urban Design Project]

- 1) Theme: Regeneration of Mixed-Use Urban Area around Chayagasaka Subway Station
- 2) Project Area: Chayagasaka 1 & 2 districts, Chikusa-ku / Sunadabashi 5 district, Higashi-ku, Nagoya City (See the map below)
- 3) Output: Students were expected to make architectural and urban design proposals to regenerate the project area around Chayagasaka Subway Station to a mixed-use area that is safe, secure and sustainable. Proposal was to include not only planning/design aspects but also various technologies of structure and environmental/building services. Four A1 posters were prepared for the jury (final presentation) on the last day of the workshop.
- 4) Grouping: Participants were organized to five groups. Each group consisted of two ENSA-PVS and eight GSES-NU students.
- 5) Flow of the Workshop
  - (1) Project description, self-introduction and grouping
  - (2) Site visit
  - (3) Analysis of current situation and issues
  - (4) Setting (general) goals and policies
  - (5) Making proposal
  - (6) Preparing posters and presentation
  - (7) Jury (final presentation)
